Dear Bruce Kurek, 12/10/93

This morning I found the letter I wrote you four days ago buried on my desk. Sorry.

I hope you will please try to understand that I can't take time to respond to letters like yours of the 6th, here today, and still, at my age and in the condition of my health, continue to write, as I have been, with ever minute I can devote to it.

I did read your letter. Some of what you write reflects a lack of familiarity with what I published in the 1960s. As others pick it up and use it as their work.

I doubt that under the privacy act the Bureau of Prisons will give you a Harrelson picture that would serve no legitimate purpose in any event, but you can ask for it under the Freedom of Information Act. Merely write to the BP and tell them that under FOIA you request it.

I do not have Madeleine Brown's book.

I did look into the Bloden story years ago. Bothing that can be determined in it.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
